All forests are one... They are all echoes of the first forest that gave birth to Mystery when the world began.

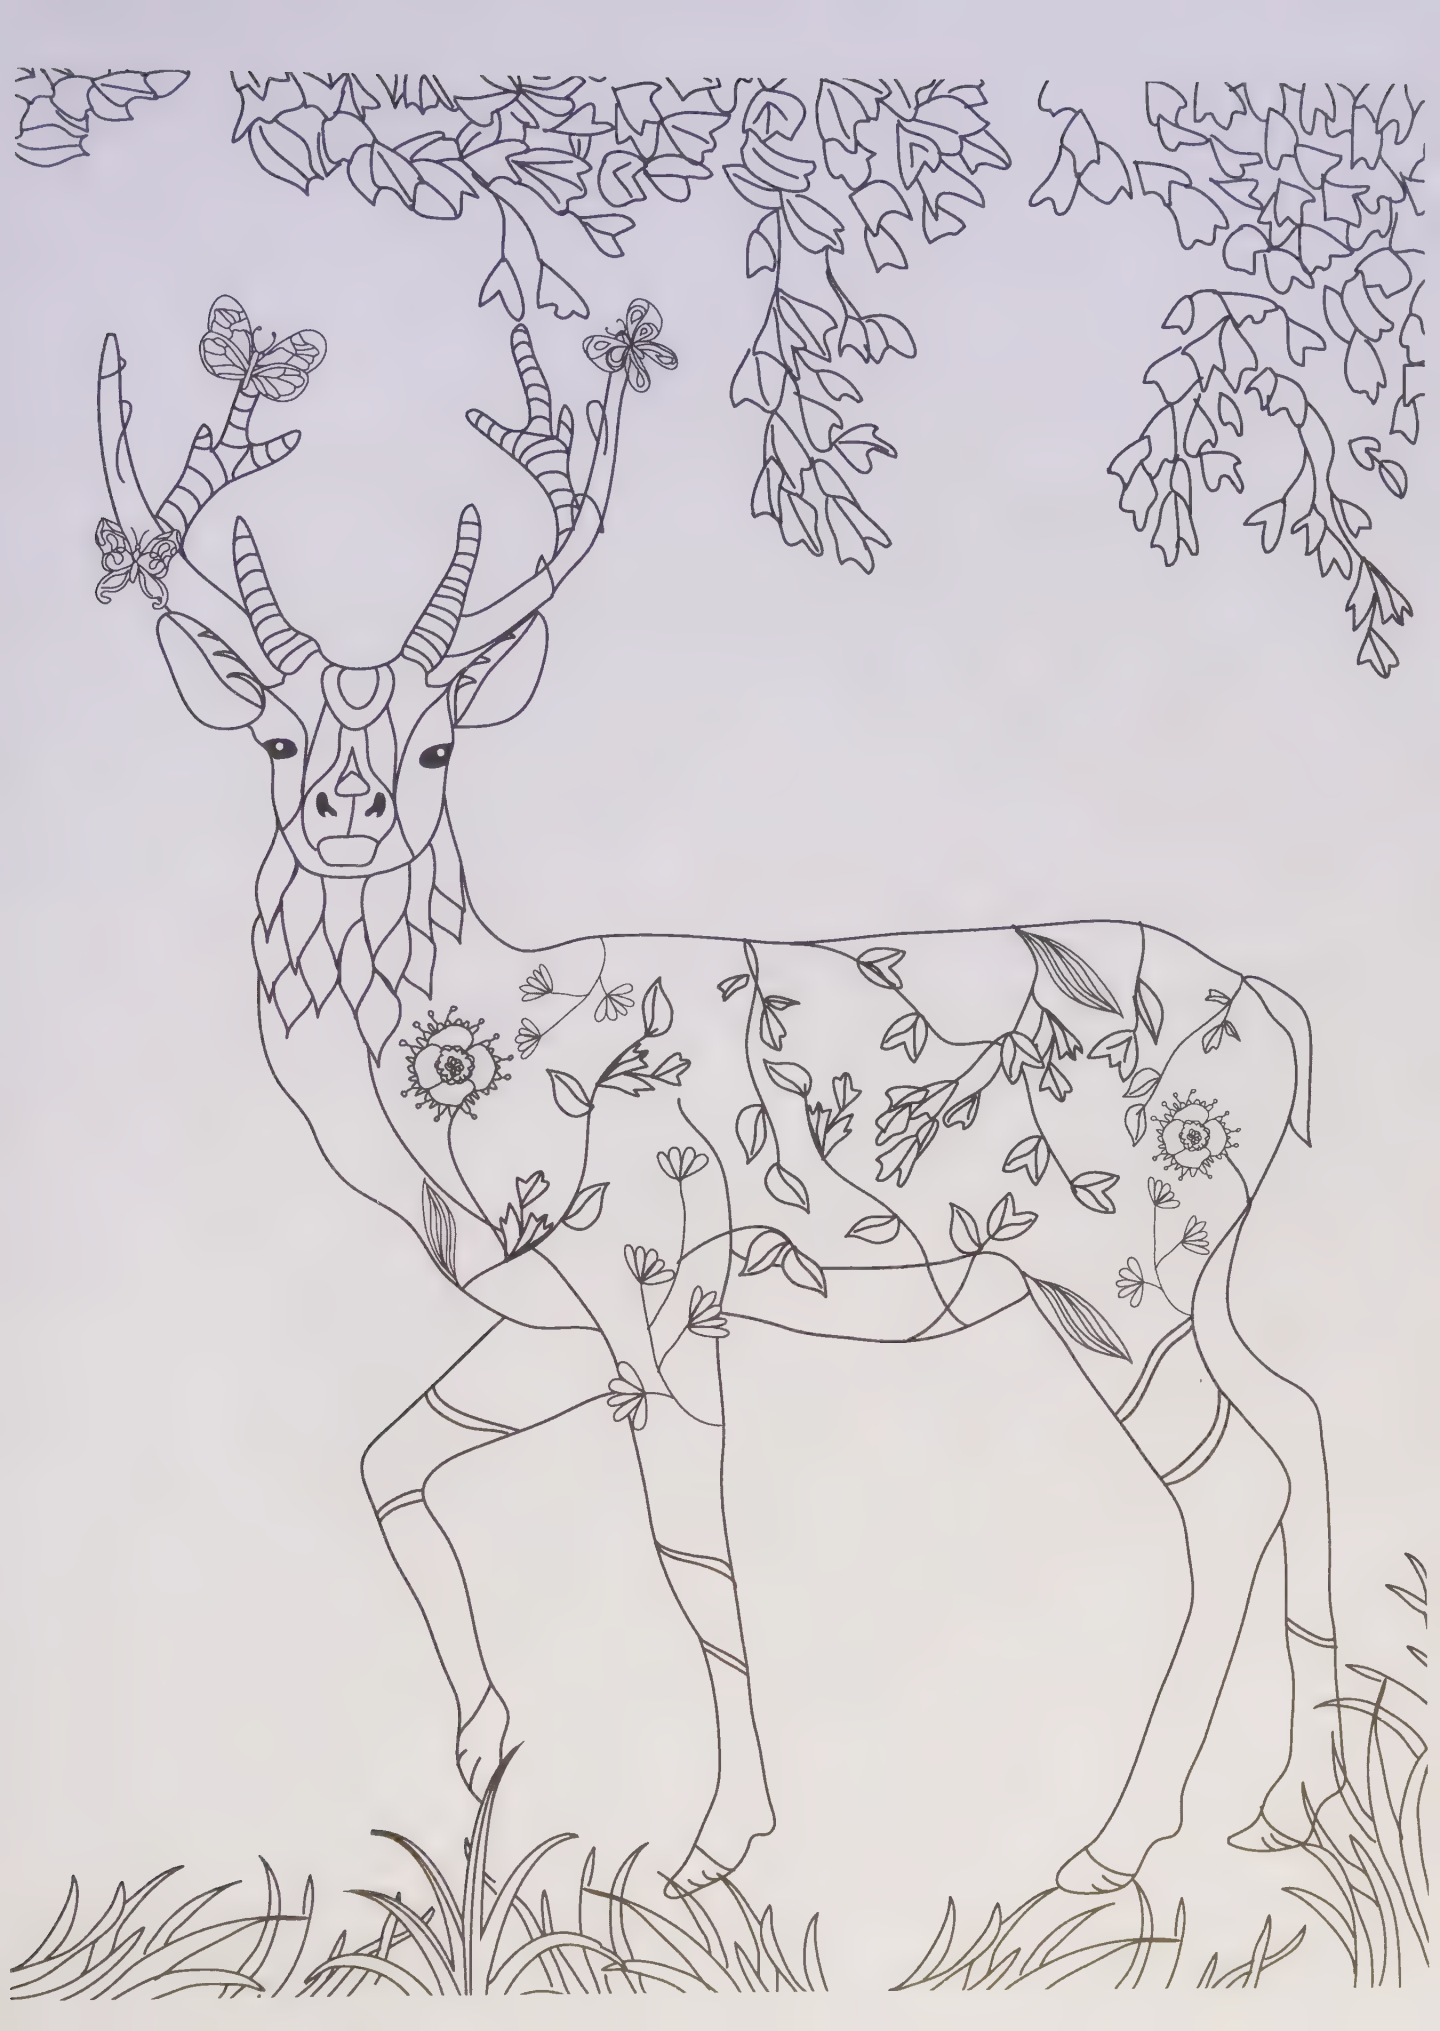

All our wisdom is stored in the trees.

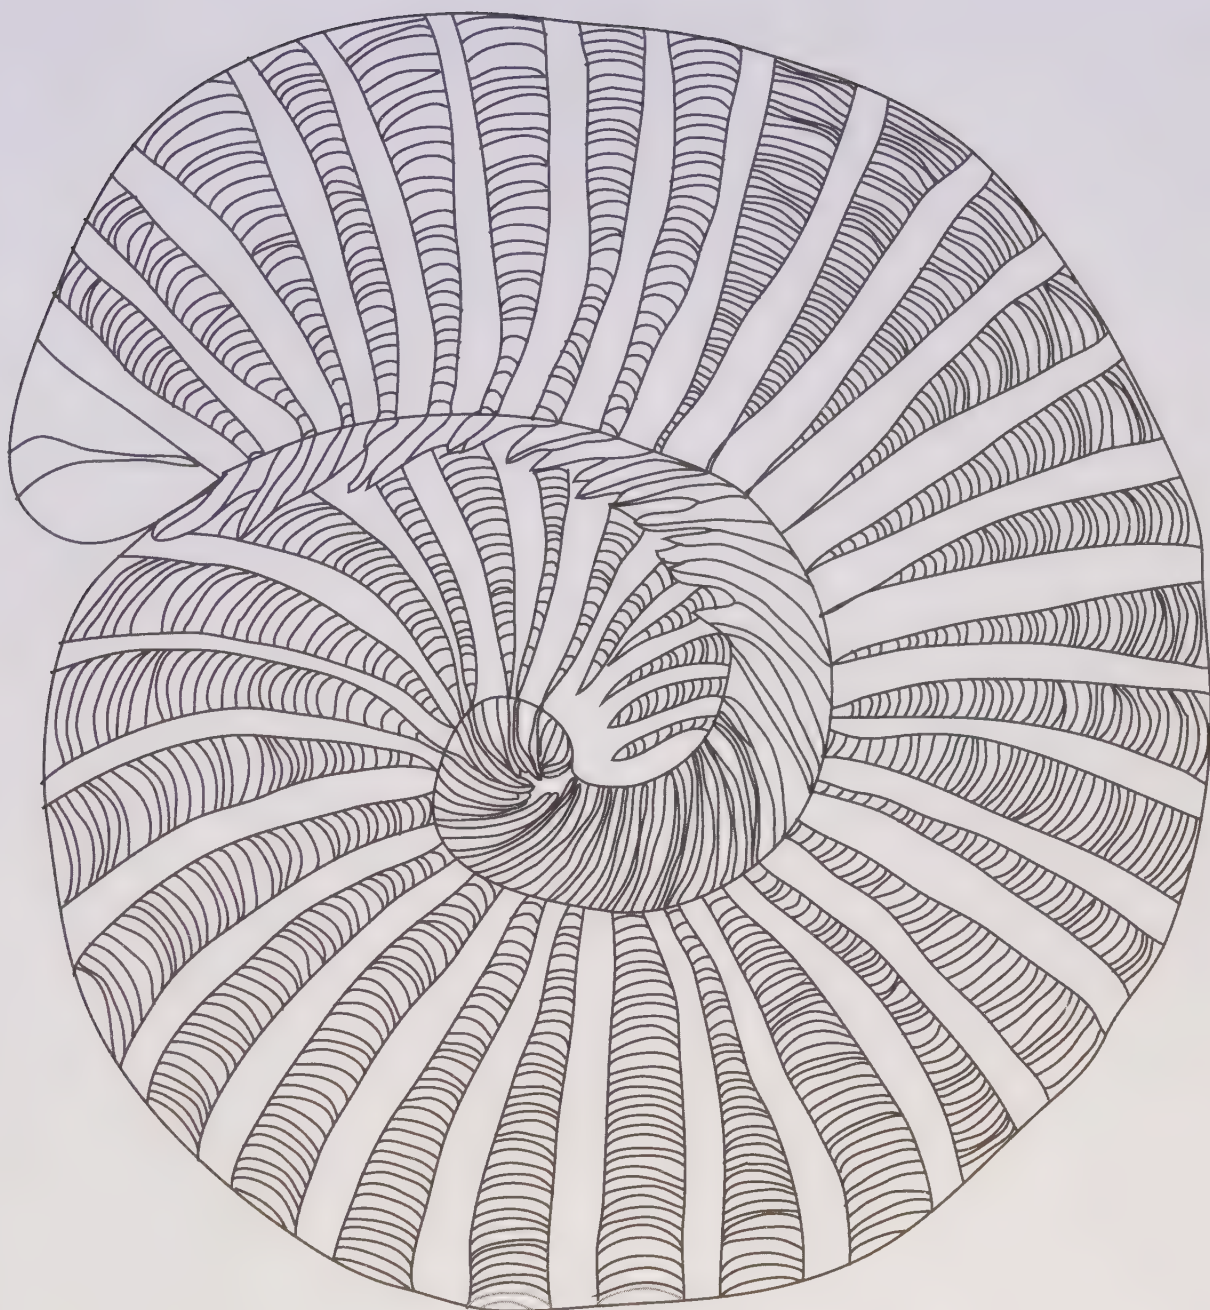

A nation that destroys its soils destroys itself. Forests are the lungs of our land, purifying the air and giving fresh strength to our people.

Franklin D. Roosevelt

And this, our life, exempt from public haunt, finds tongues in trees, books in the running brooks, sermons in stones, and good in everything.

Wherever you go, no matter what the weather, always bring your own sunshine.

A people without children would face a hopeless future; a country without trees is almost as helpless.

A seed hidden in the heart of an apple is an orchard invisible.

For in the true nature of things, if we rightly consider, every green tree is far more glorious than if it were made of gold and silver.

Great songs don't grow on trees, yet lots of songs have been written on great trees.

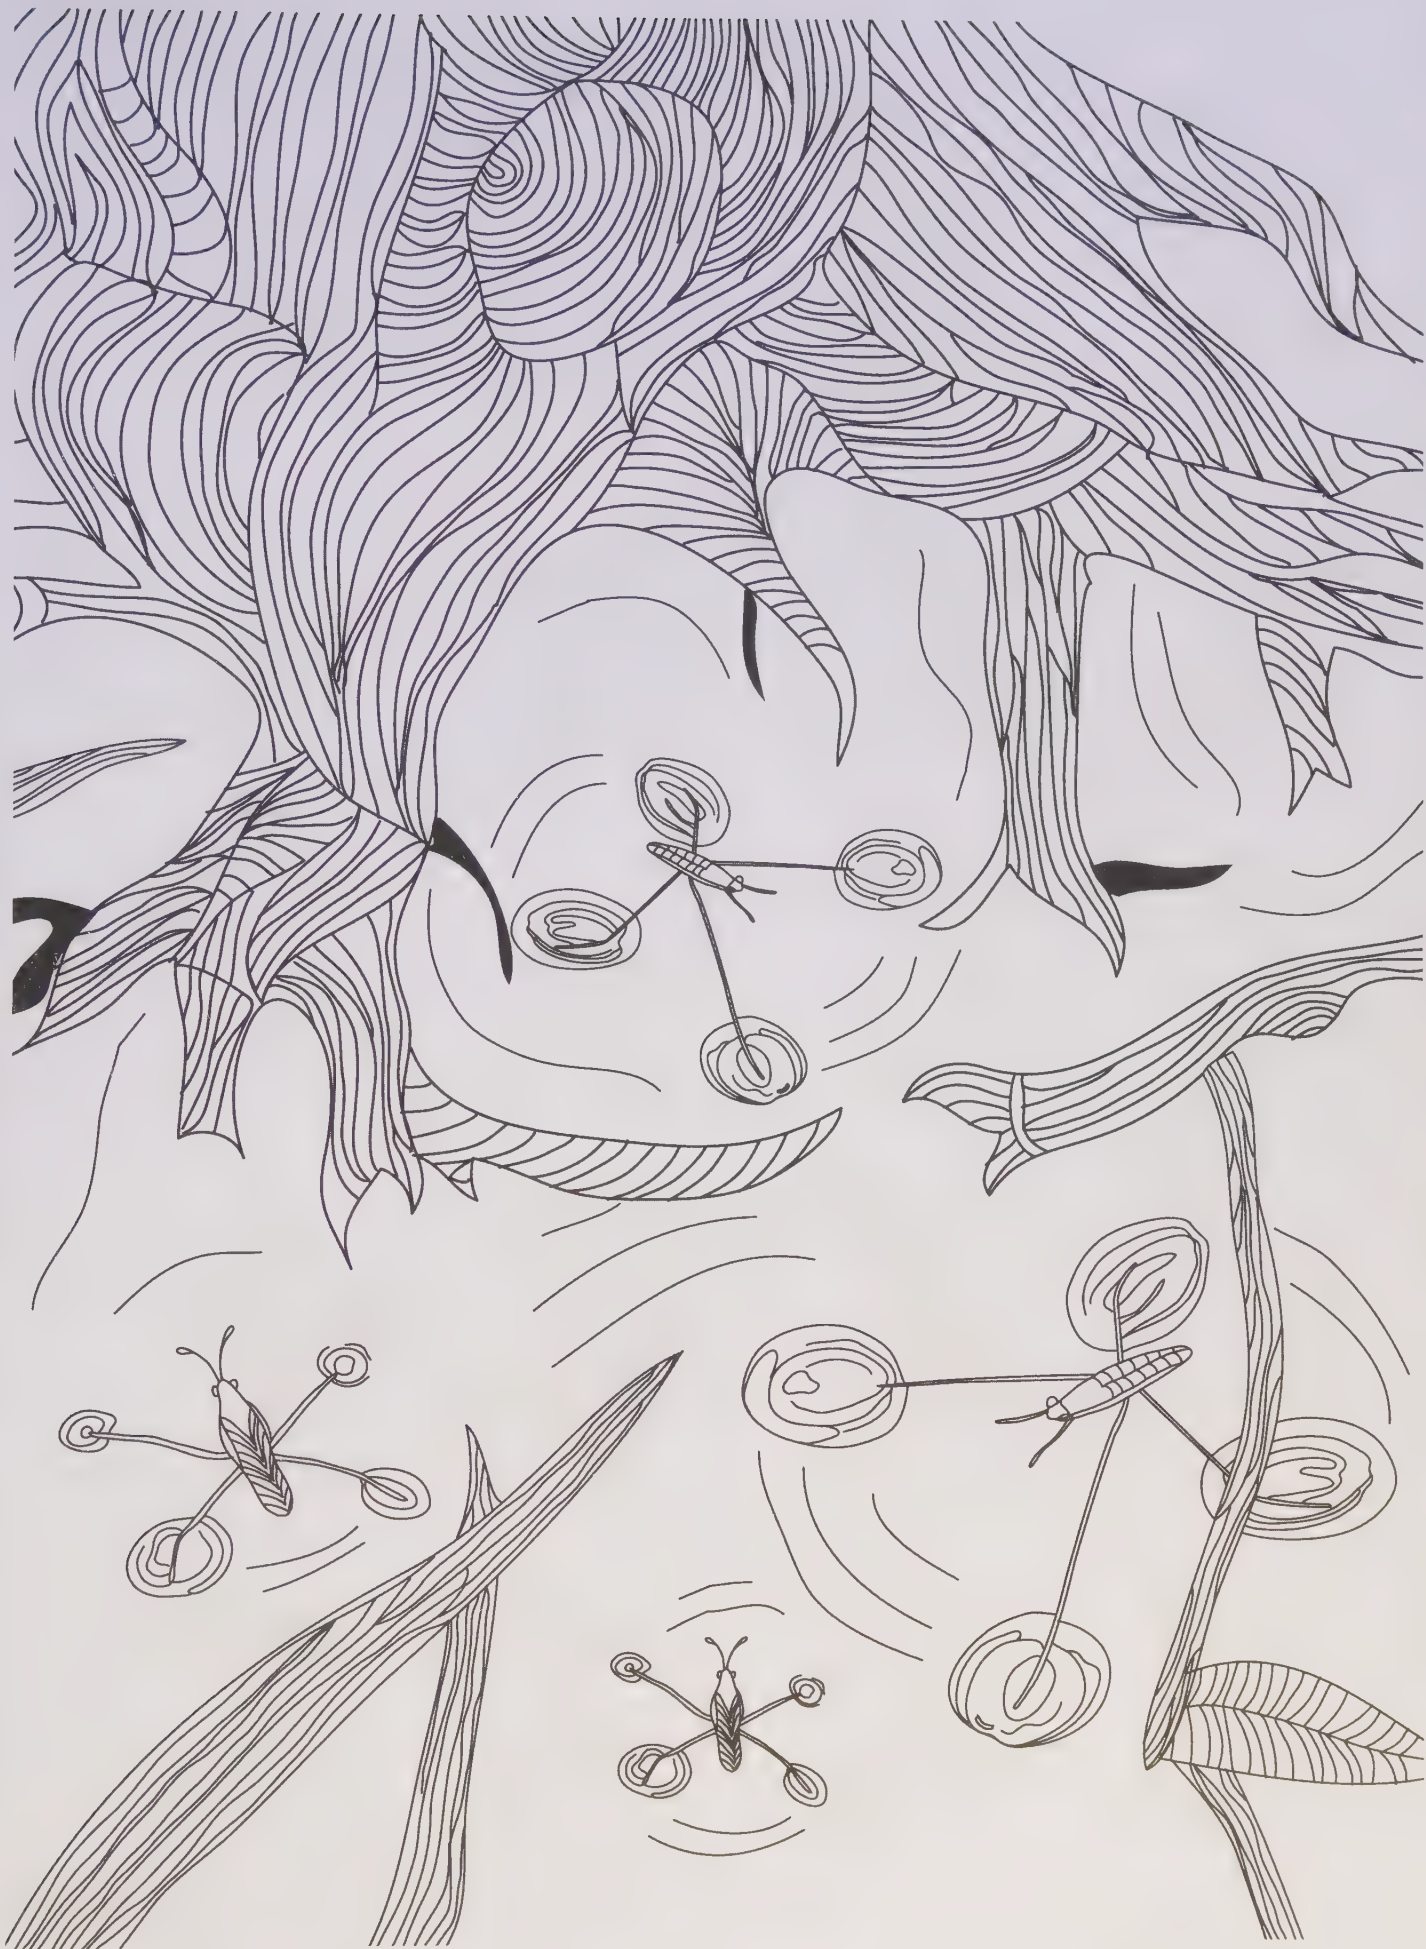

And the day came when the risk to remain tight in a bud was more painful than the risk it took to blossom.

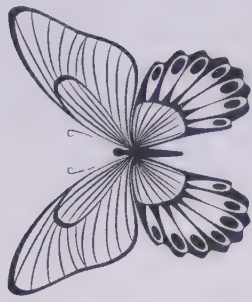

Earth and sky, woods and fields, lakes and rivers,
the mountain and the sea, are excellent schoolmasters, and teach some of us more than we can ever learn from books.

Here I find the true nature of the tree - not in the bulk of its shape but in the way its form alters my vision of the world.

He that planteth a tree is a servant of God, he provideth a kindness for many generations, and faces that he hath not seen shall bless him.

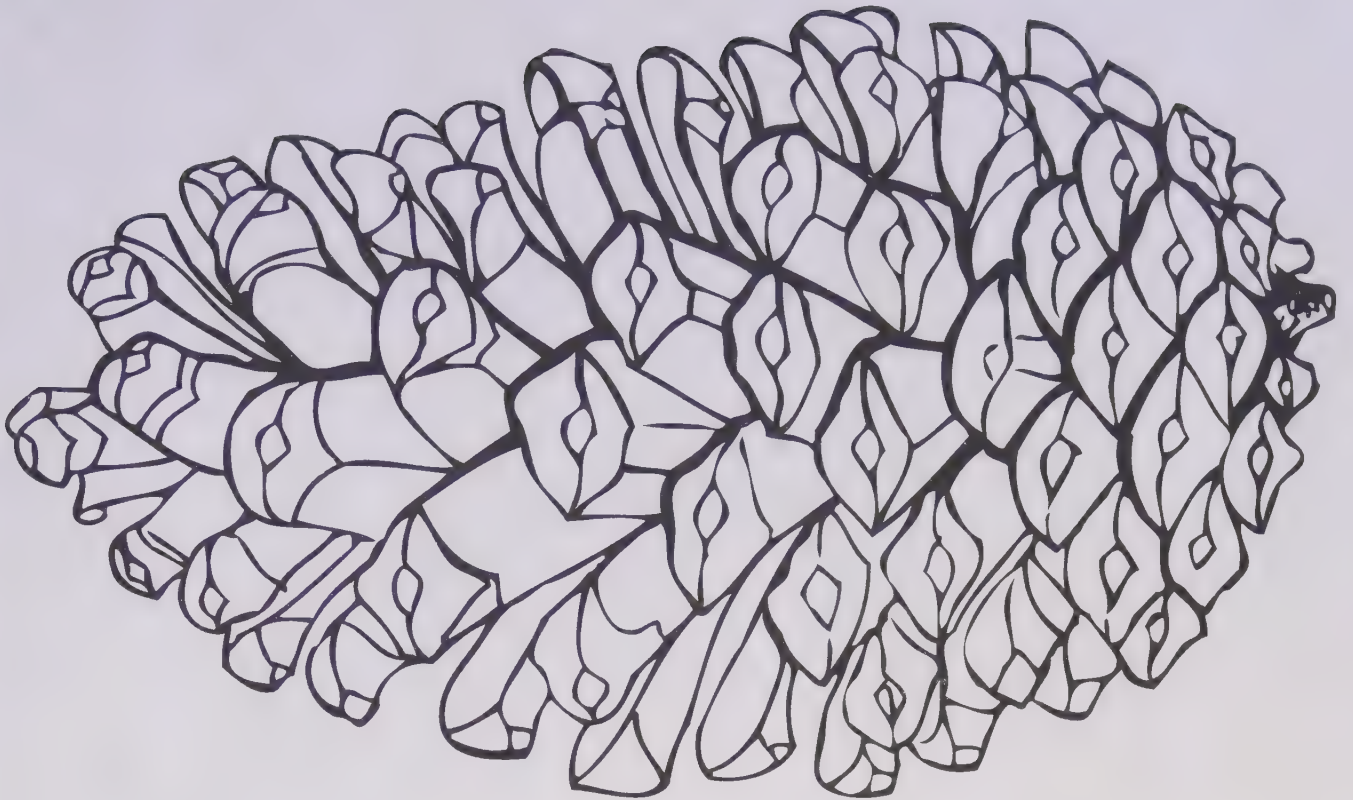

Even in winter an isolated patch of snow has a special quality.

He who plants a tree plants a hope.

I am at home among trees.

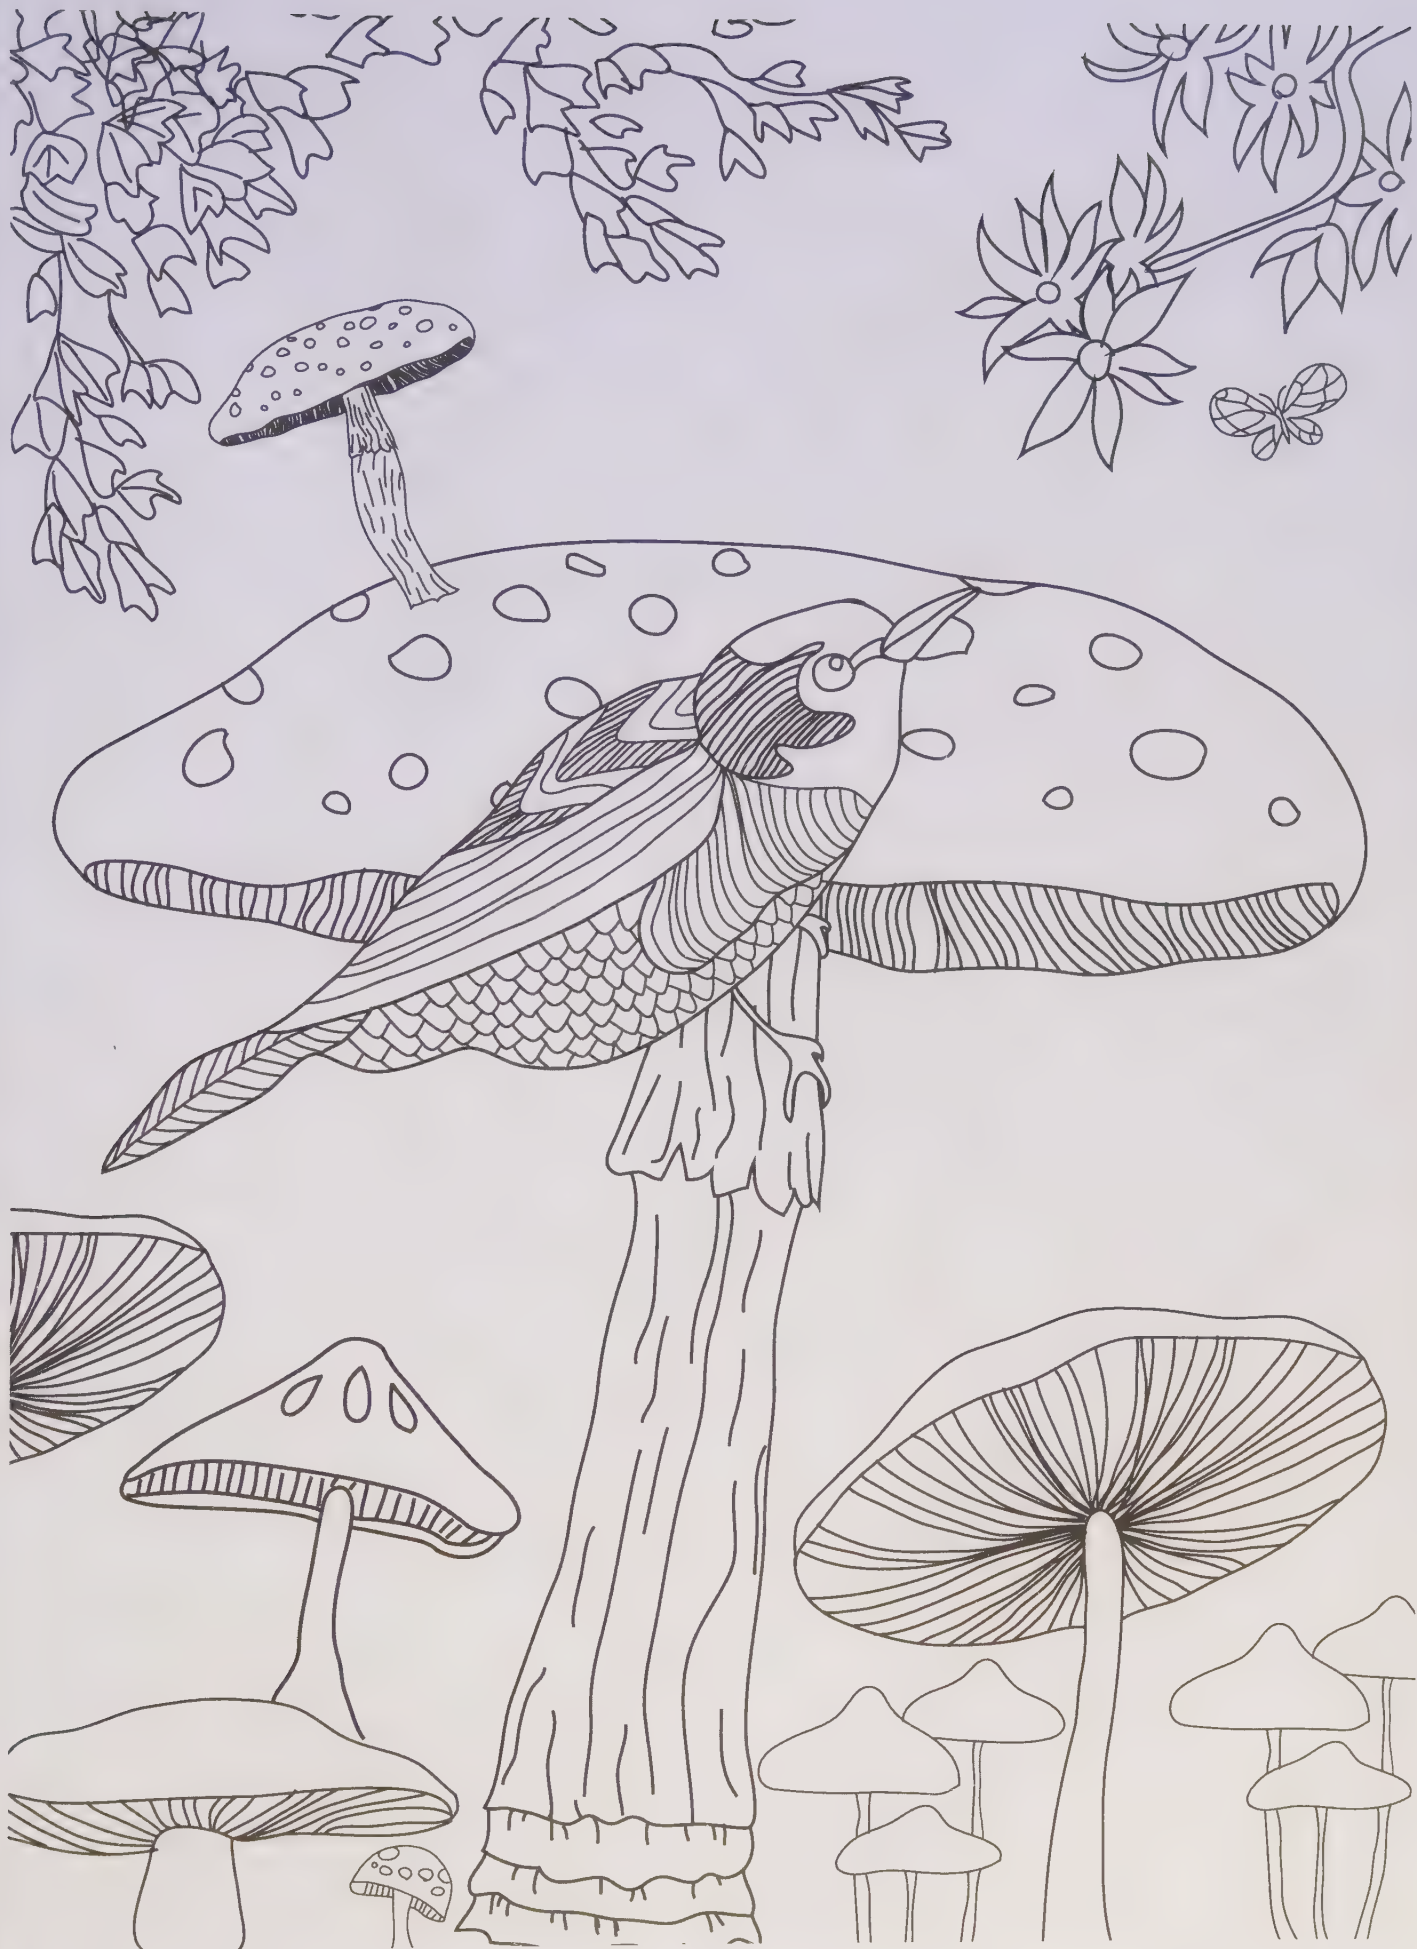

You are a child of the universe, no less than the trees and the stars. In the noisy confusion of life, keep peace in your soul.

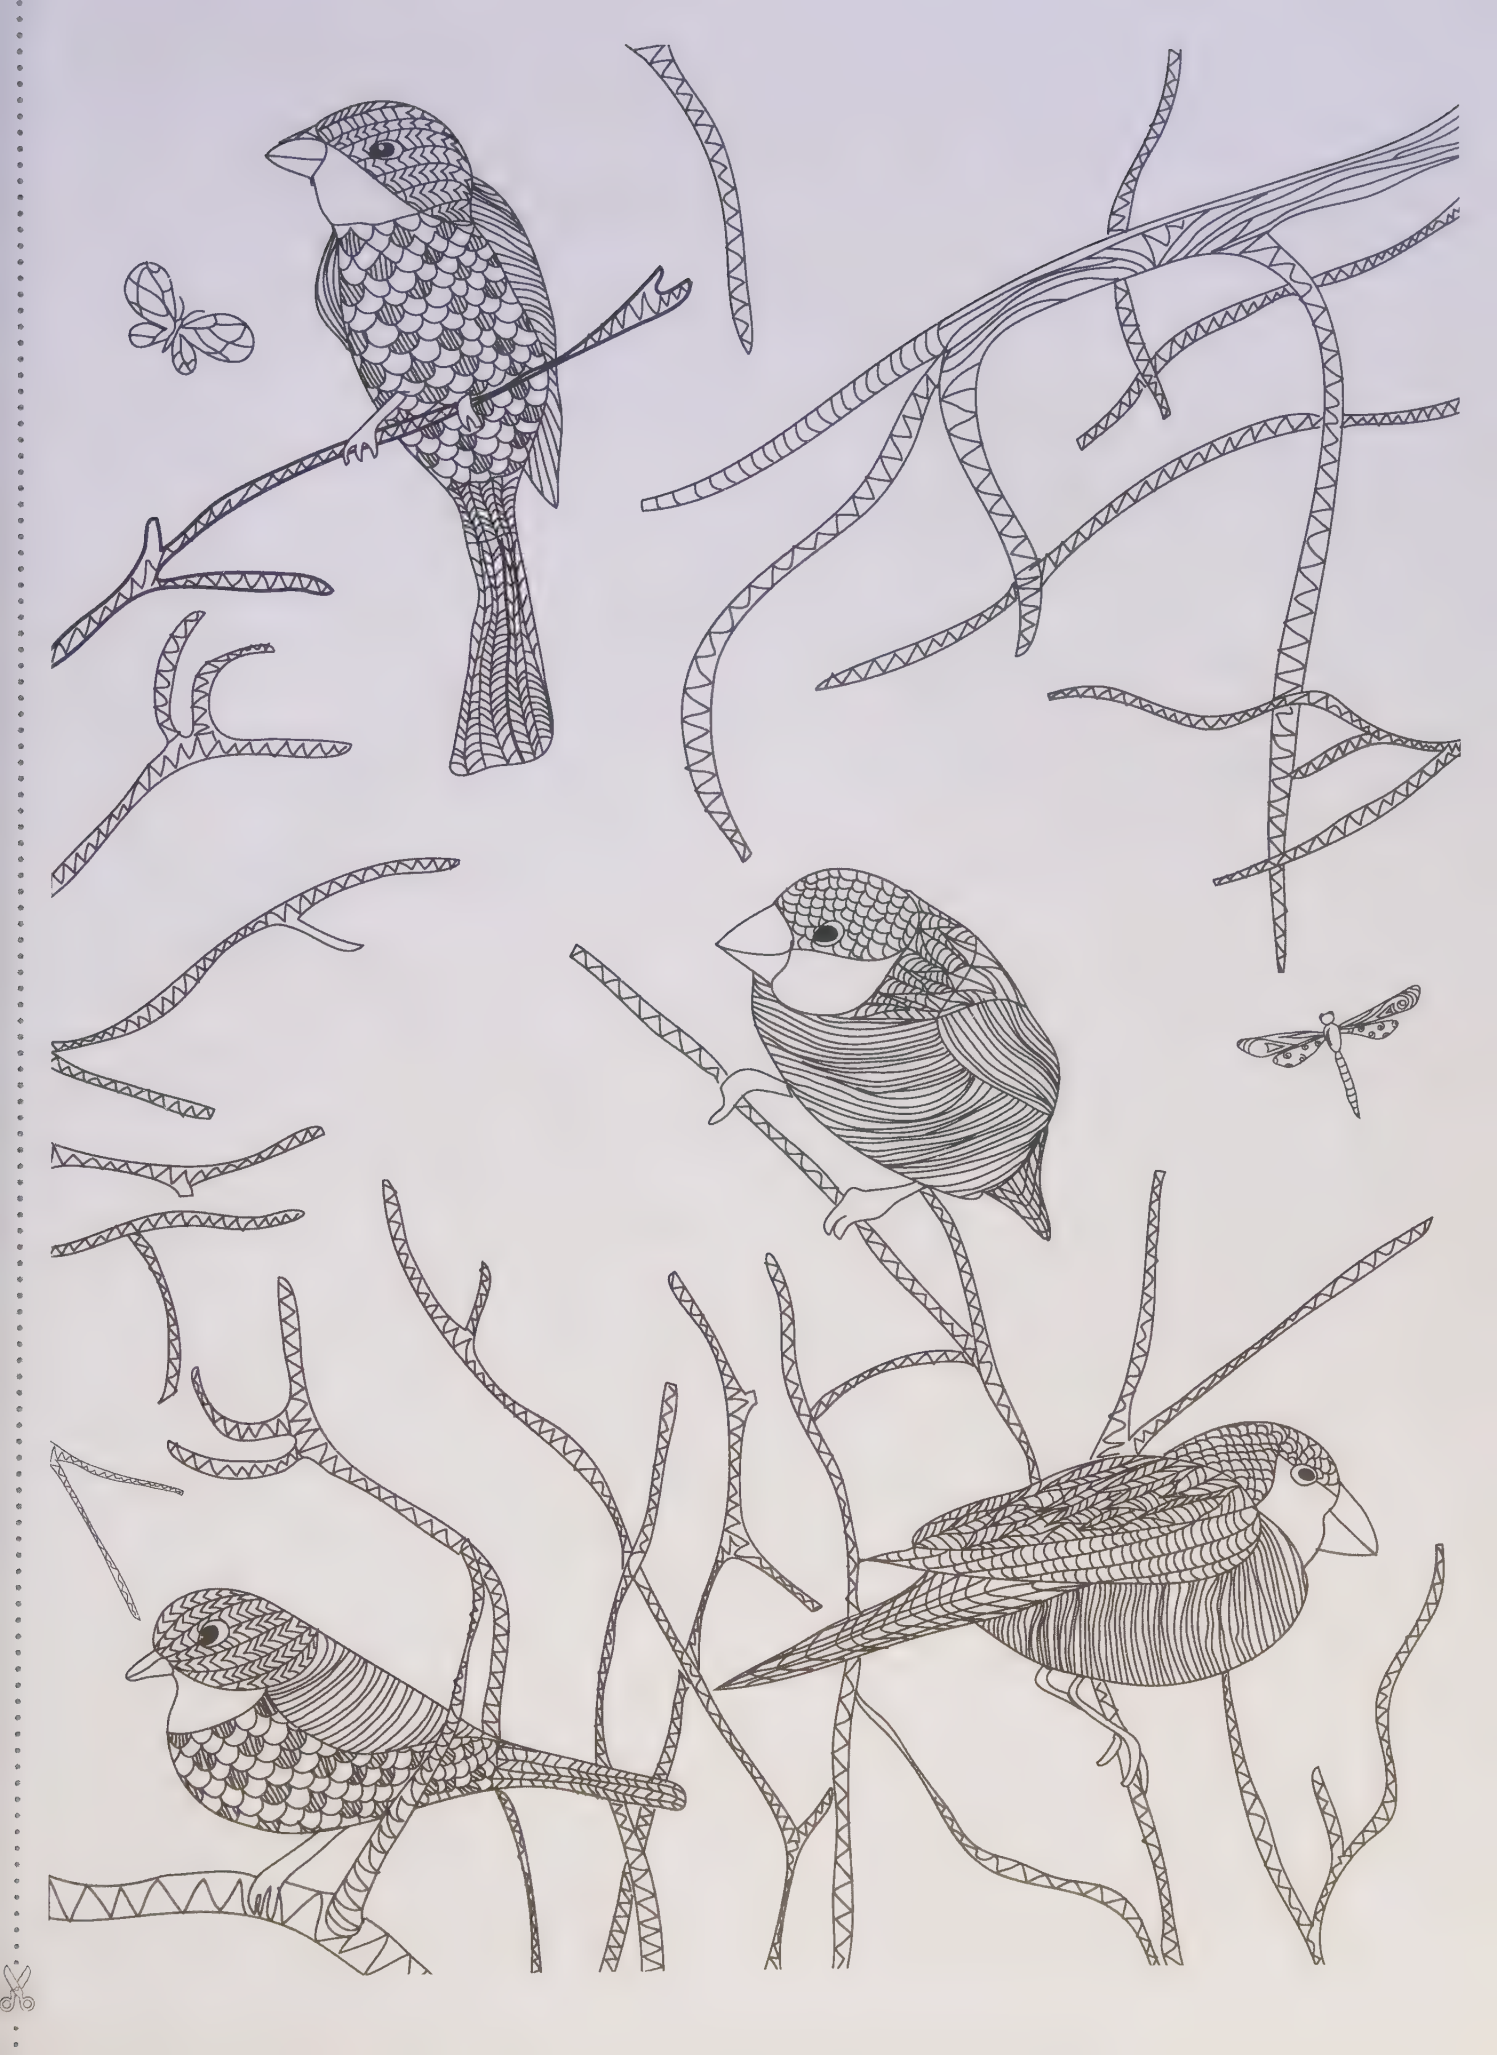

If I were a tree, I would have no reason to love a human.

If we are the trees, words are our roots; and we grow as we write.

If you really want to eat, keep climbing.
The fruits are on the top of the tree.
Stretch your hands and keep stretching them.
Success is on the top, keep going.

In all things of nature there is something of the marvelous.

I thank you God for this most amazing day,
for the leaping greenly spirits of trees,
and for the blue dream of sky,
and for everything which is natural,
which is infinite, which is yes.

I hear hundreds of years of life. I hear wind and rain and fire and beetles. I hear the seasons changing and birds and squirrels. I hear the life of the trees this wood came from.

I like trees because they seem more resigned to the way they have to live than other things do.

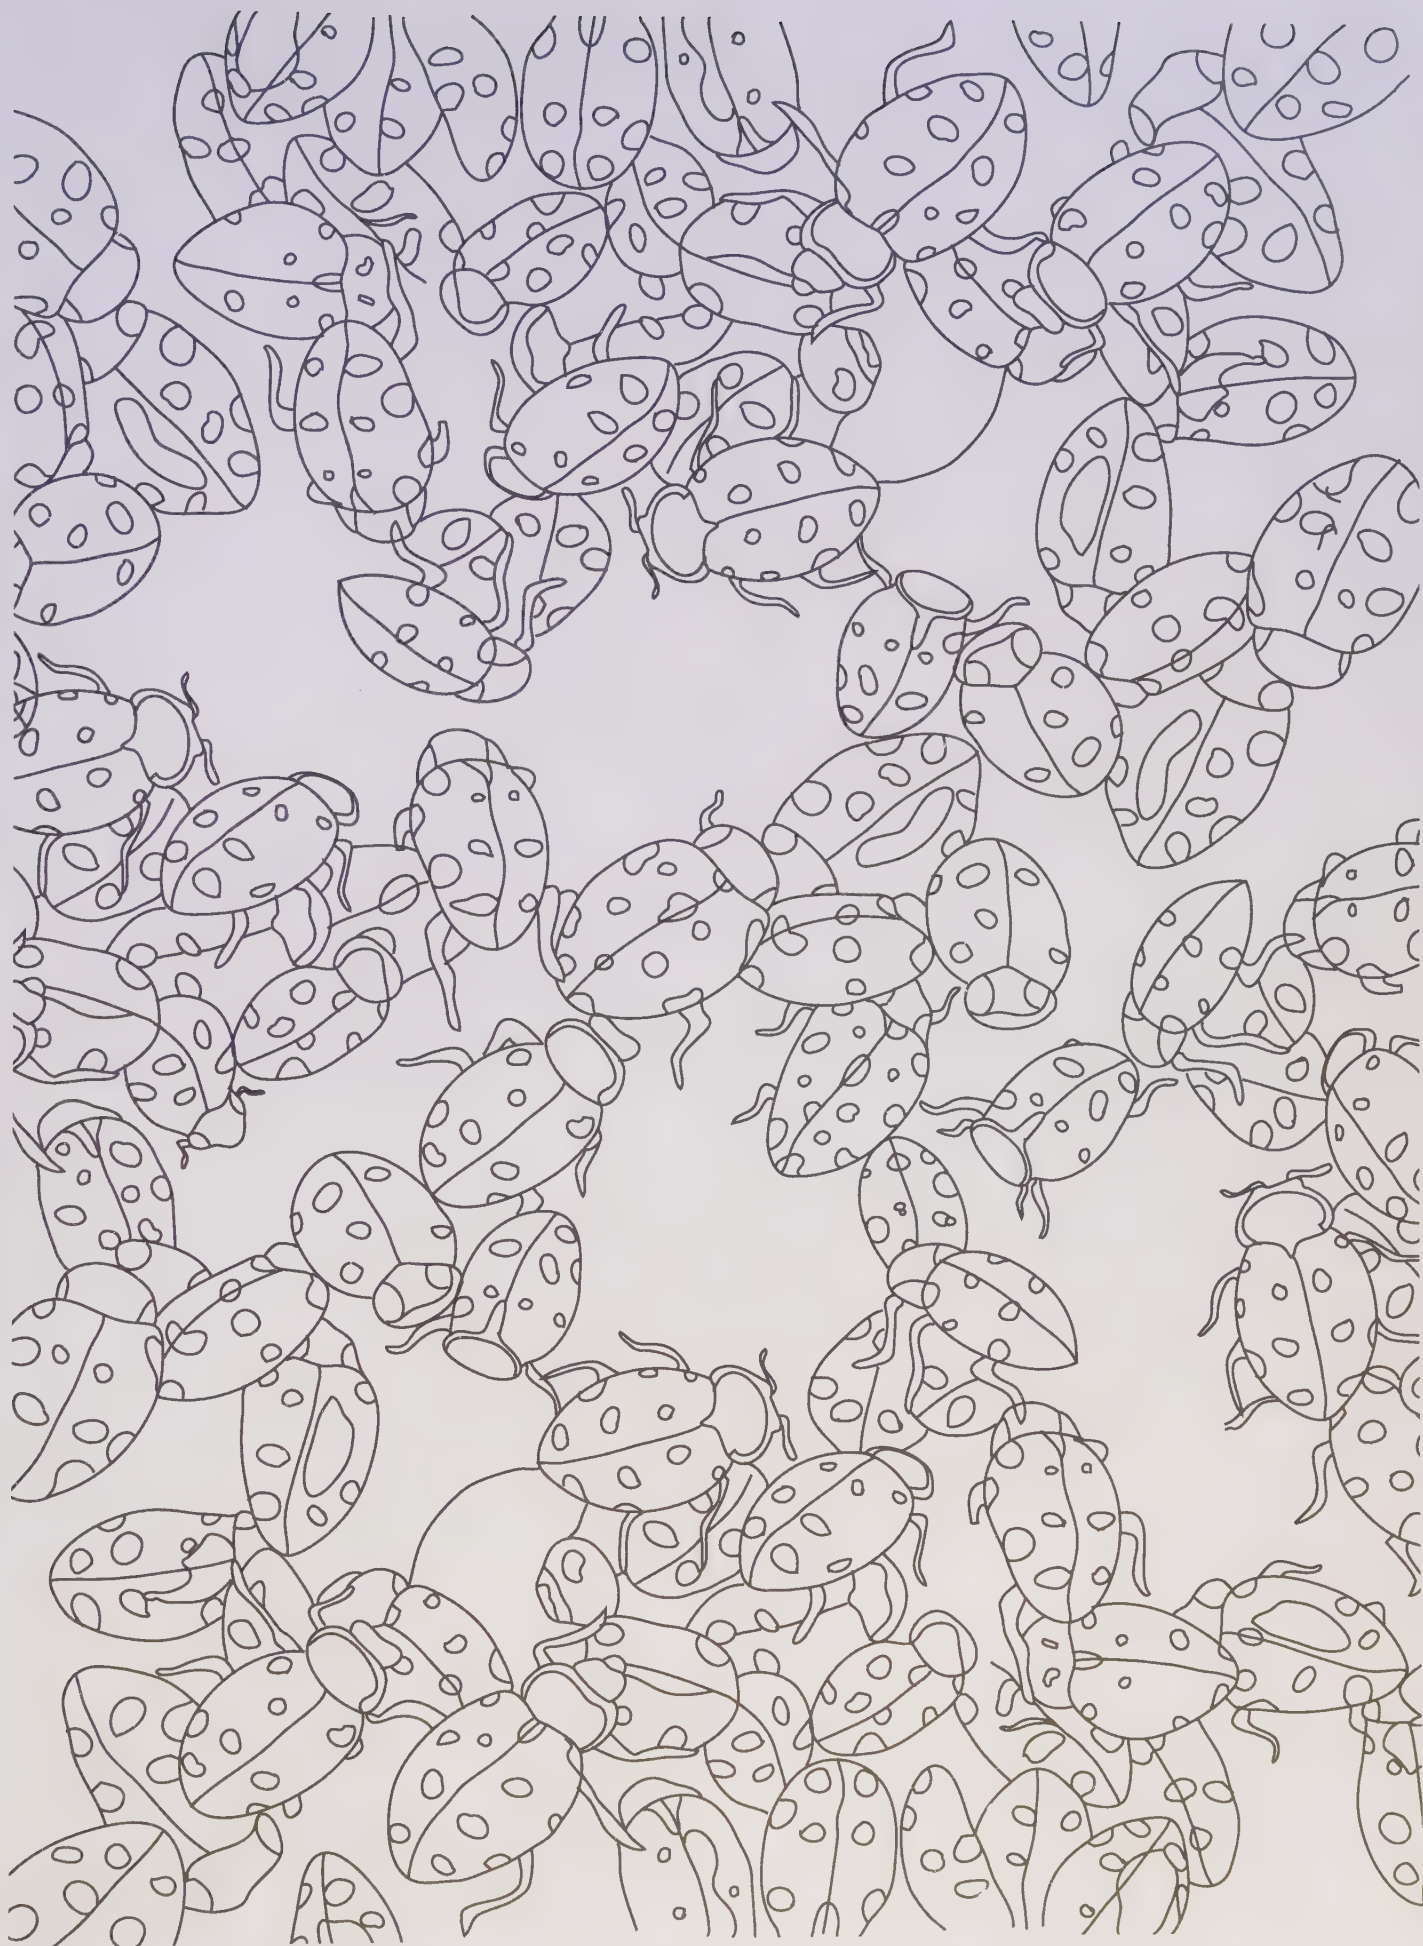

Nature always wears the colors of the spirit.

Ralph Waldo Emerson

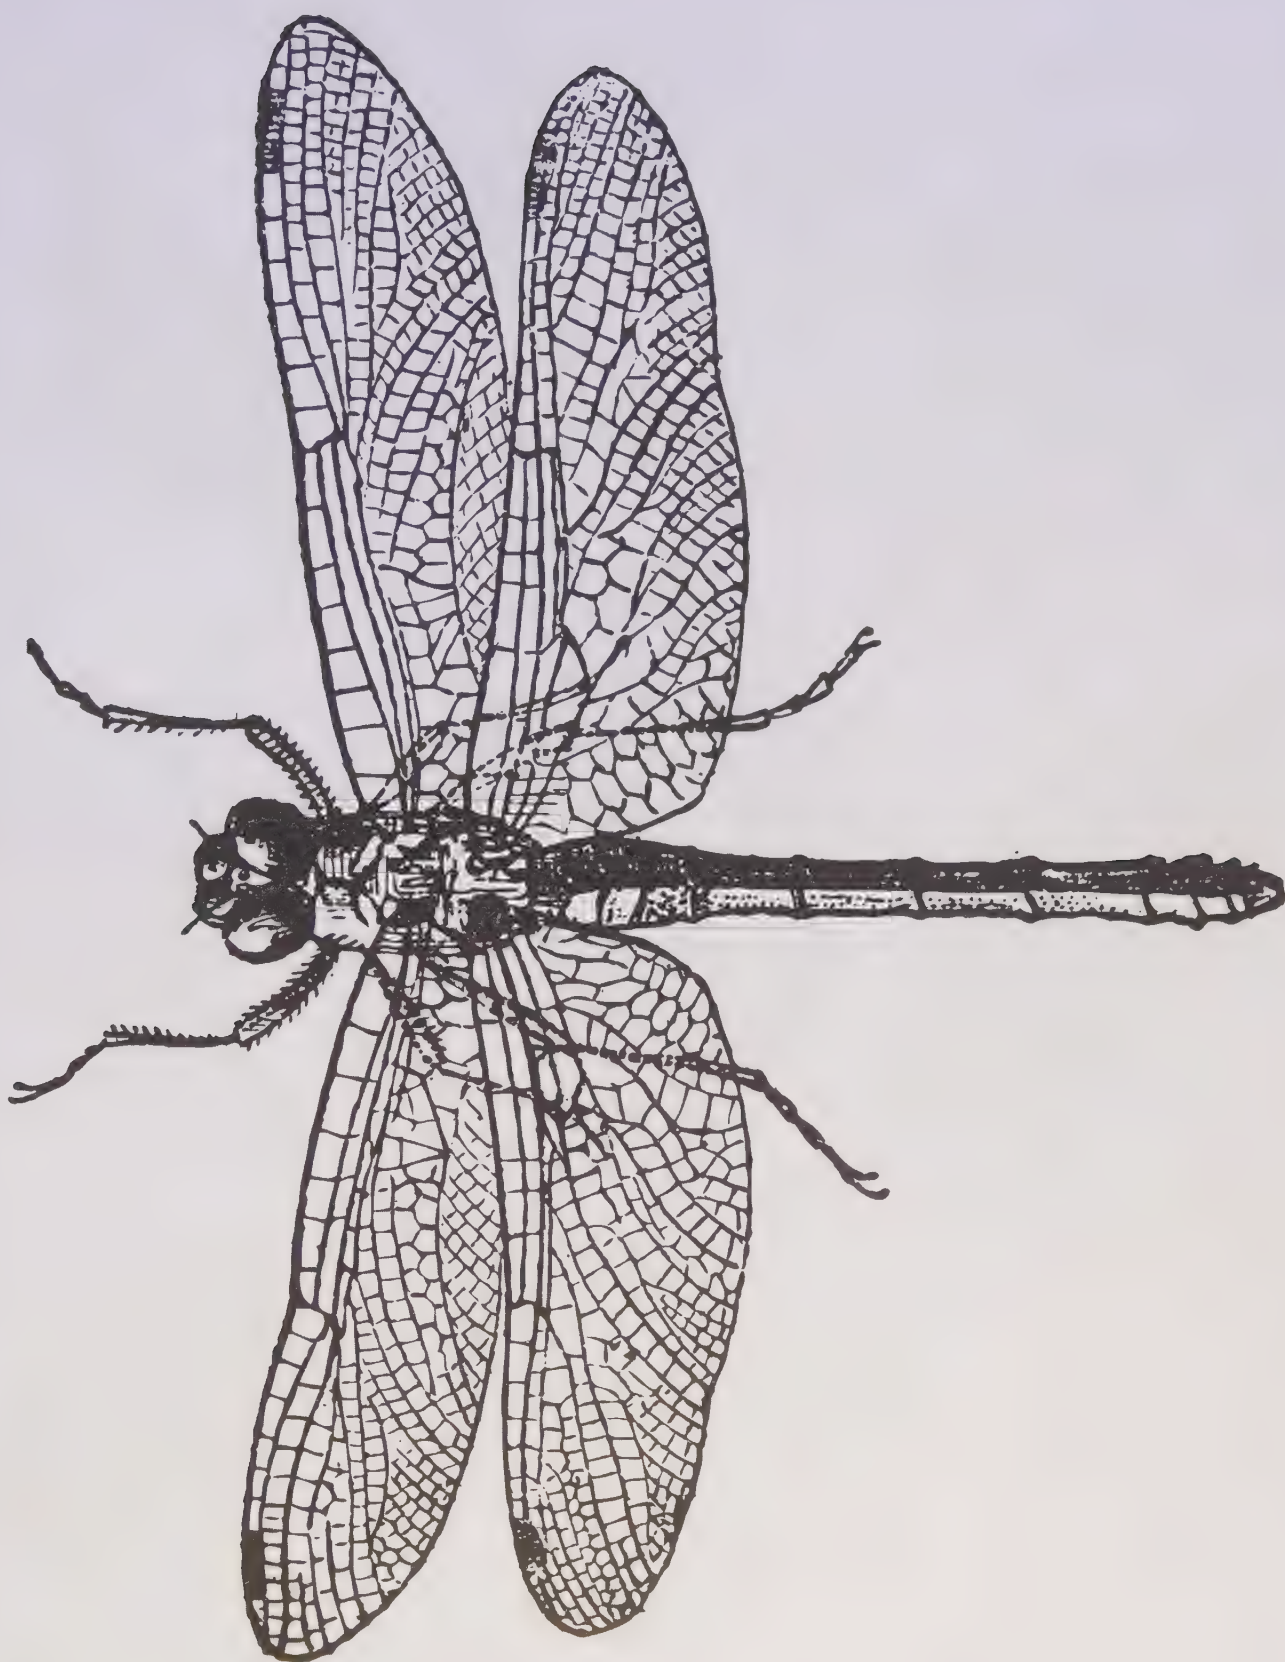

I'm planting a tree to teach me to gather strength from my deepest roots.

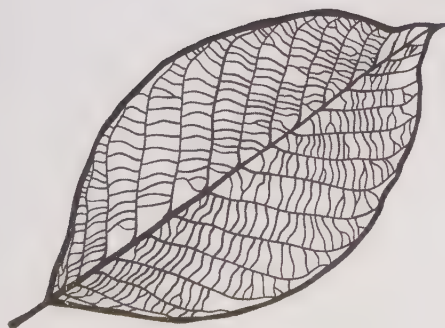

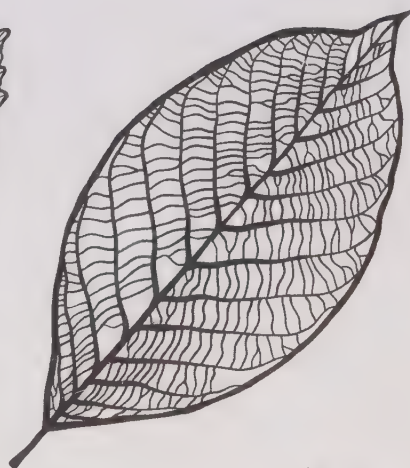

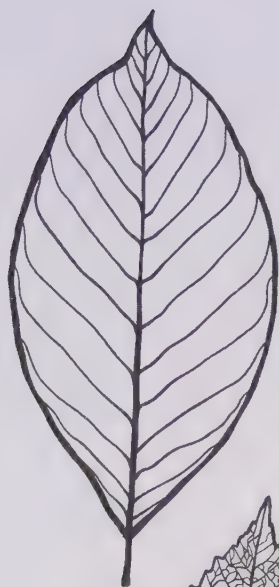

In a forest of a hundred thousand trees, no two leaves are alike. And no two journeys along the same path are alike.

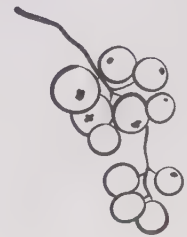

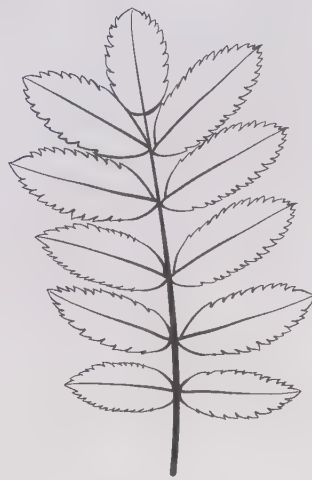

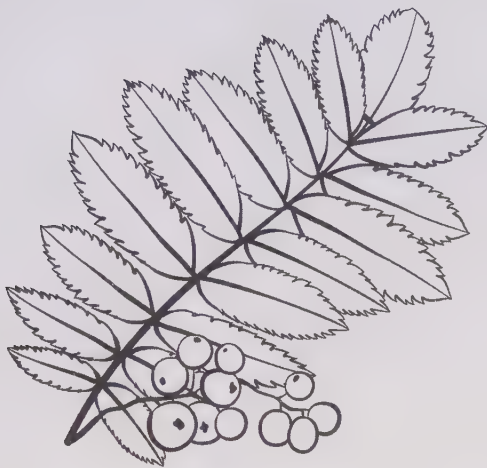

One of the most tragic things I know about human nature is that all of us tend to put off living. We are all dreaming of some magical rose garden over the horizon instead of enjoying the roses that are blooming outside our windows today.

In November, the trees are standing all sticks and bones. Without their leaves, how lovely they are, spreading their arms like dancers. They know it is time to be still.

In the morning light, I remembered how much I loved the sound of wind through the trees. I laid back and closed my eyes, and I was comforted by the sound of a million tiny leaves dancing on a summer morning.

I think that I shall never see a poem lovely as a tree.

Joyce Kilmer

Sunshine is delicious, rain is refreshing, wind braces us up, snow is exhilarating; there is really no such thing as bad weather, only different kinds of good weather.

It is difficult to realize how great a part of all that is cheerful and delightful in the recollections of our own life is associated with trees.

The best thing one can do when it's raining is to let it rain.

Henry Wadsworth Longfellow

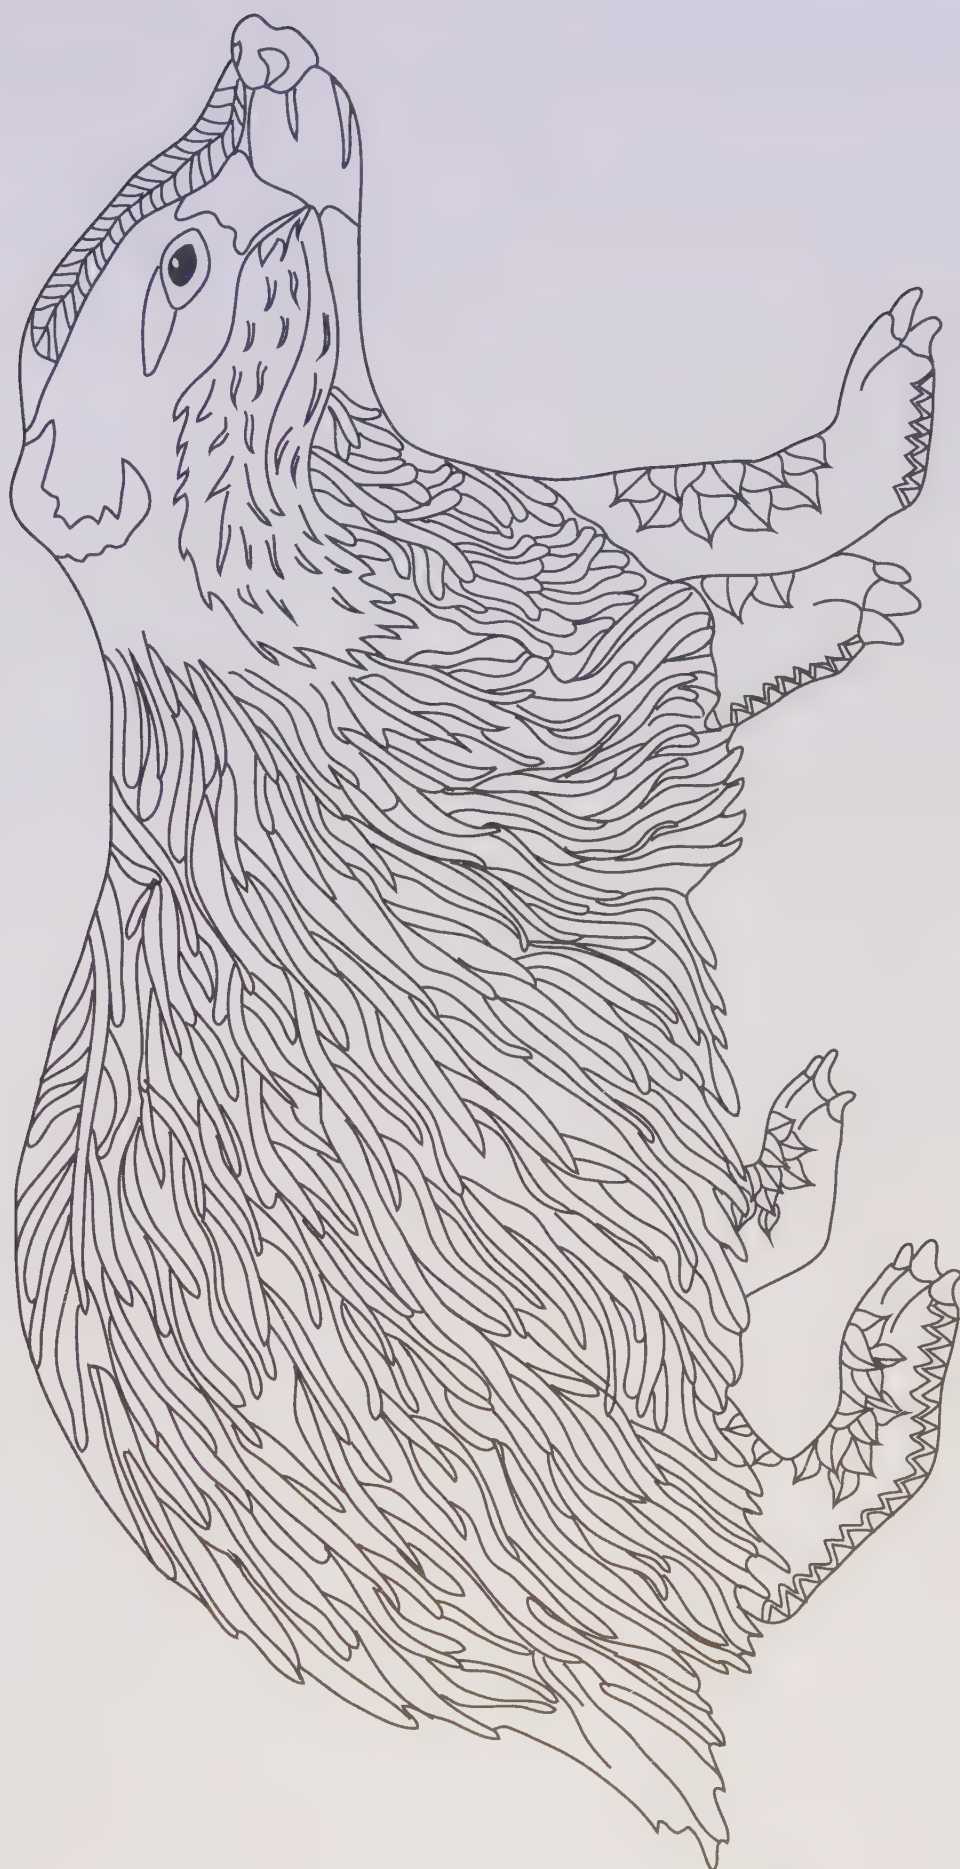

Listen to the trees talking in their sleep,' she whispered, 'as he lifted her to the ground. 'What nice dreams they must have!'

The mountains are calling and I must go.

Lonely trees are not lonely; they have their eternal companies: Songs of the birds; shadows of the clouds; lights of the Moon; Whispers of the winds... Lonely trees are not lonely.

Love the trees until their leaves fall off, then encourage them to try again next year.

There are always flowers for those who want to see them.

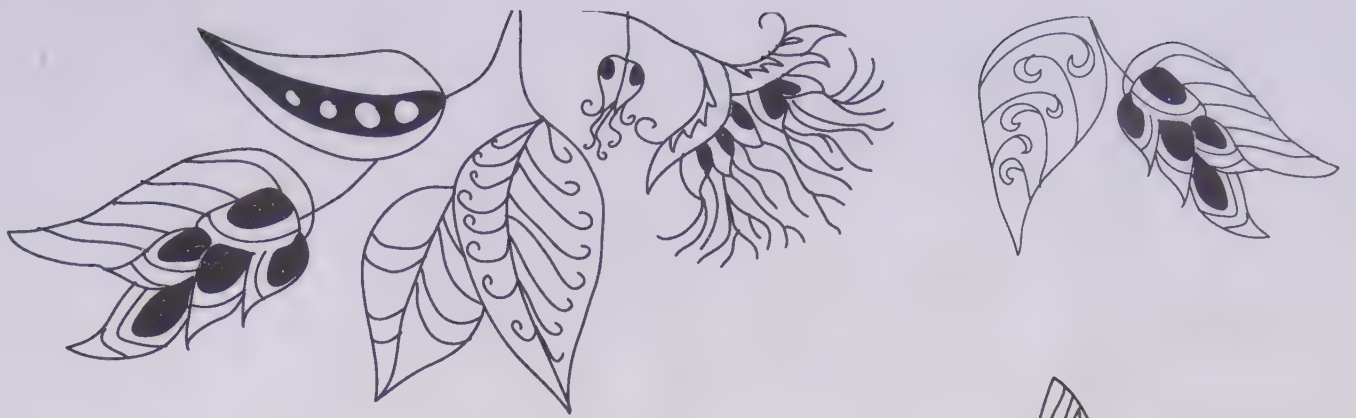

Only the trees, only the trees. Like a key they see beyond the mystery, waiting patiently ever holding me while I hold the sky.

Rest is not idleness, and to lie sometimes on the grass under trees on a summer's day - listening to the murmur of the water, or watching the clouds float across the sky, is by no means a waste of time.

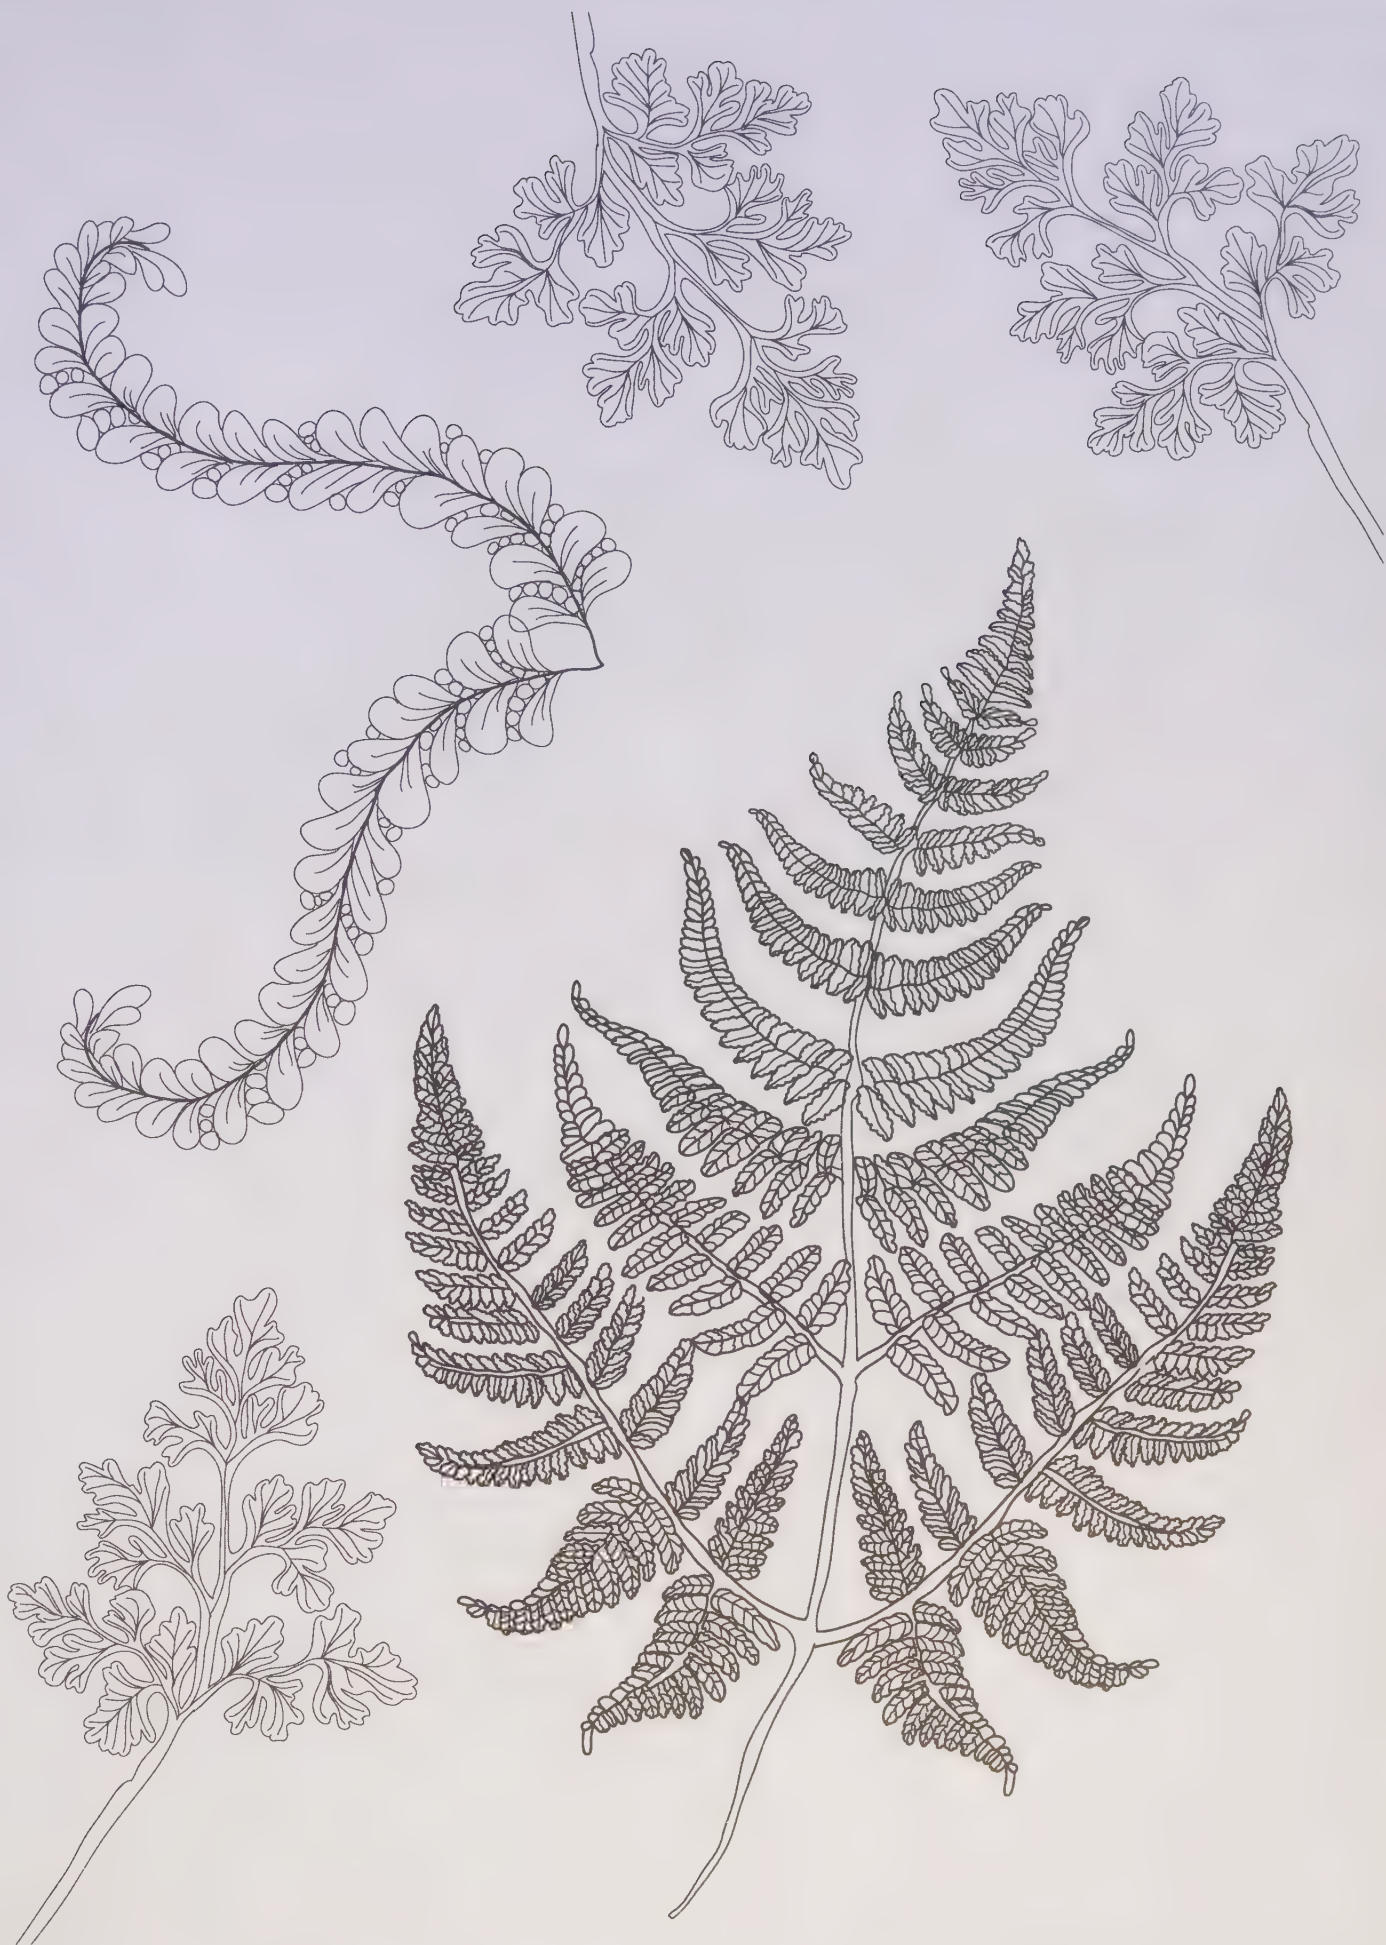

There is pleasure in the pathless woods, there is rapture in the lonely shore, there is society where none intrudes, by the deep sea, and music in its roar;
I love not Man the less, but Nature more.

She was sitting in a garden more beautiful than even her rumpaging imagination could ever have conjured up, and she was being serenaded by trees.

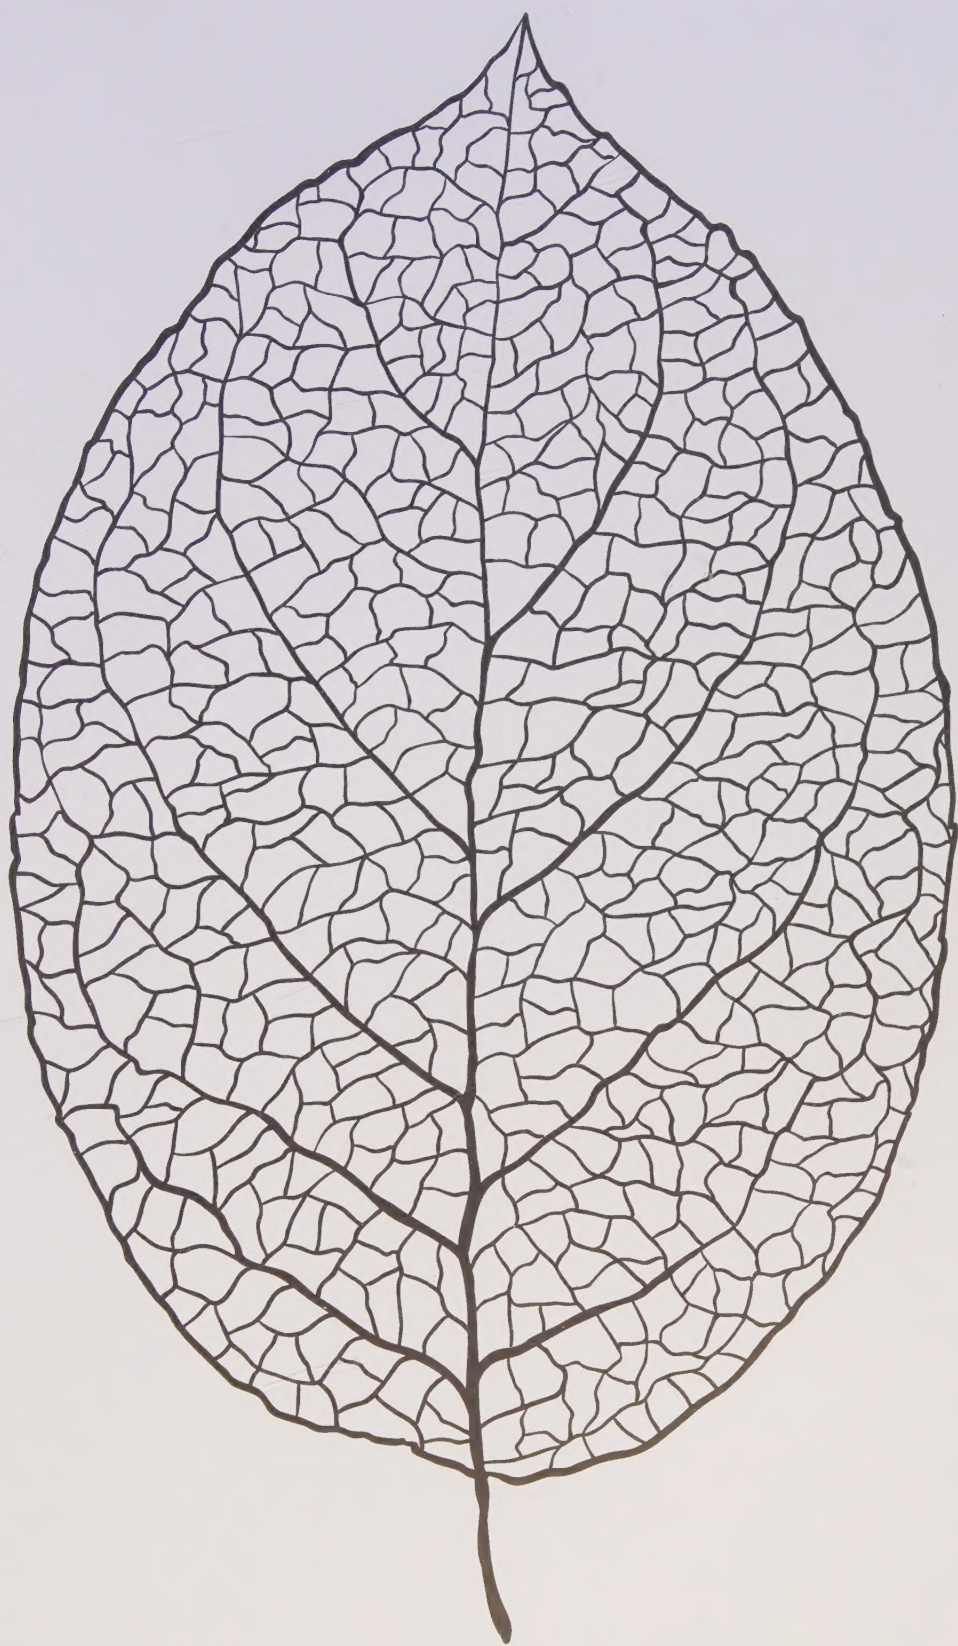

The best time to plant a tree was 20 years ago. The next best time is now.

The woods are lovely, dark and deep. But I have promises to keep,
and miles to go before I sleep.

The branches of the trees looked as if they were holding hands and bowing their heads in prayer.
